"Behold, I have given you every green herb... and to you it shall be for meat."

Greene, Rhode Island
February 17, 1960

Dear Friends,

"Mares eat oats, and does eat oats," and little does eat parsley. Yes, goats like herbs, and our goats eat them every day. Sage is their favorite, then comes parsley, thyme, and savory. Prince Orpheus, the youngest member of the herd, likes sage and apples for dessert. The goats prefer the dried herbs. However, we prefer them fresh. We like everything fresh, except green olives.

In winter, we use dried herbs because the fresh herbs in our Kitchen Window Garden would, if used, be leafless in no time from so much snipping, especially the parsley, the lemon balm, and the mint. We put parsley in practically everything. Lemon balm gives a cool, lemony flavor to rose hip tea. Mint is nice in muesli.*

Muesli is a yummy dessert known as Delight of the Gods. You make it with a fresh apple, a heaping spoonful of cooked oatmeal, a little honey, a few nuts, half an orange, and a leaf of mint. It is as delicious as it is pretty, with the red specks of apple skin in it. We serve it with cream or cheese, or vanilla cookies. Really, all it is is dressed-up applesauce. It is easier to make than an apple pie, or apple brown betty, or apple stroodle.

As the days begin to grow longer, there are moments when we wish they would stay shorter, so that we could work longer on indoor winter tasks. After the too-brief-month of February, comes March and the Boston Flower Show, then Easter, and then spring planting... and then summer and autumn, and that brings us round to Cranberry Time again.

Yesterday was cold and still, and just right for spreading phosphate rock and greensand on the land. Today the sky is blue, the sun high, and the temperature sixty four. The apple buds are plump and almost pink. We think the blossoms will be in full bloom by Saturday, May 14th, and on that day, come rain or shine, we invite you to attend our first May Fair.

Until then, may your heart be merry, your health be happy, and "if you would live for aye," be sure to eat sage in May.

Sincerely

Walter Arnold

Margaret Thomas

 We will not exhibit this year.

P.S. Wherever you are, you will find the way to Greene below.

Greene is located 27 miles southwest of Providence, 27 miles north of Westerly, 6 miles East of the Connecticut line, 72 miles from Boston or Hartford, 187 miles from New York City, 1492 miles from Minneapolis, and 5016 miles from Honolulu. From BOSTON take route 9, then left on 16, then left on 122, and join 146, then right on 102, then left on 117 to Greene. From PROVIDENCE take route 6 west to North Scituate Police Barracks, then 1st left onto Rockland Road, then join route 102, turn right onto 117 to Greene. From nearby CONNECTICUT points, take route 14, turn right on 117 to Greene.

From the Village of Greene, follow the arrow opposite the Fire Station, cross the railroad tracks, (trains run twice a week,) pass the Greene Public Library and the Community Church beside the woods, turn left at the little old one room school house, look for a great white boulder beside a tall pine tree, and a sign shaped like a mortar and pestle, and there you are. (For further information telephone us--Express 7-3652, or Express 7-4394.)

VISITING HOURS: The gardens and greenhouse are open every afternoon from 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock. Mornings are full to overflowing with farm chores and routine work. Please plan your visits within the hours of 1:00 to 5:00 P.M.

METHOD OF FARMING

In 1946, a Rhode Island physician visited our gardens and asked to see our compost piles. We didn't have any compost piles to show him. He introduced us to the bio-dynamic method of farming. Since then we have practiced natural farming, and our goal has been, "Return more to the land than you reap. Maintain a good balance of nature."

Poisonous sprays, insecticides, and minerals treated with sulphuric acid are taboo. Tons of animal manures are spread on the land. Household garbage, garden and lawn trimmings, old hay, are composted and returned to the land. Slow acting minerals such as ground limestone, phosphate rock, greensand, granite meal are used in composting soil. We subscribe to:
